Helping Mr. Redmond keep our buildings and grounds looking lovely is their job.

These valuable helpers help with laundry and boiler room maintenance.

We are thankful for this group for they take such pride in keeping our buildings and dormitories in good order.

The kitchen staff is a very integral part of the campus.

Mr. Redmond, Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds, and Mrs. Rickles, Housekeeper, pause in the midst of their busy schedules.

Miss Hurst, Mrs. Johnson and Miss Garrott make plans for another festive banquet.

Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Lanier, Mrs. Dollar and Mrs. Frye are our house directors.

Mrs. Fain and Miss Lifsey create a pleasant atmosphere in the infirmary.

The secretaries to the College are Mrs. Roe, Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Richardson, Miss Nicholas, Miss Stroecker, Mrs. Clary, Mrs. Burnett and Mrs. Crawford.

Miss Buckner, Mrs. Bryce, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Dillard are secretaries in the Business Office.

Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Johnstone keep the alumni well informed of campus activities.

The library staff, Mrs. McGarrity, Miss Armour, Mrs. Young and Miss Brender, take care of the many books and periodicals in their trust.

Mrs. Mignerey and Mrs. Cunningham operate Wesleyan's busy lines of communication.

Gertrude Scott, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. King operate a vital part of our campus—the "Pharm."

Miss Kern, Mr. Wright, Miss Broome and Mrs. Gordon instruct us in foreign languages.

Gathered in the faculty lounge are members of the English Department, Mr. Byers, Miss Munck, Dr. Charles, Dr. Gignilliat and Miss Atkins.

Mr. Wallis and Dr. Hicks help us understand problems in sociology.

Through Dr. Murdock we see ourselves introspectively.

Mrs. Becker, Miss Davis and Dr. Stinetorf, are members of the Mathematics Department.

Mr. Belden, Dr. Cowie, Dr. Wilson and Mrs. Slentz check on the formula for instant coffee.

Joining in an informal discussion of philosophy and religion are Mr. Tucker, Mrs. Lawter, Dr. Brown and Dr. Akers.

Dr. Sherriff, Dr. James and Miss Shiver encourage us to keep abreast of world affairs.

Mrs. Phillips instructs us in home economics.

Miss Reddick and Miss Stanion display their skill on the soccer field.

Mr. Bement, Mrs. Hatfield and Mr. Philips, members of the Drama Department, chat before class.

Mr. Scudder, Mr. Neuforth and Mr. Morrison are members of the art faculty.

Enjoying a "musical moment" around the piano are Miss Lane, Mrs. Jelks, Mr. O'Steen, Miss Pinkston and Mr. Herrington of the piano and organ faculty.

Mr. Bauer, Dr. Michael and Mr. Steinhaus look over a duet for the next chamber music program.

Mr. McLean, Miss Ross and Dr. Villard of the voice faculty seem to be engrossed in a new piece of vocal music.

Engaged in a musical discussion are Mr. Chenoweth of the woodwind faculty and Mr. Zimmerman of the piano faculty.

Dr. Smith, Dr. Cantrell, and Dr. Bledsoe of the Education Department are gathered around a new visual aid.

The Inauguration of Dr. Strickland gave our faculty an opportunity to display their gowns with various hoods signifying degrees.

This year, of 1961, is a crossroads in our lives—a meeting of the old and the new. For this year brings to a close the old, familiar life that we have known—books, teachers, concerts, soccer—and opens the door to a new, exciting, and unfamiliar one—travel, careers, marriage, children.

As we stand at the crossroads, we are filled with mixed emotions. We can't help but reminisce as we look back over our years here at Wesleyan—the first night we spent in Persons with that multitude of unfamiliar faces, the week we bore the title of "Ship-Wrecked Rats," the excitement of the Stunt Cup with a red and white ribbon, the all-night vigils in the study parlor before a sophomore lit test, the rings and pins that began to sparkle among our class, the pride and nostalgia of donning the black caps and gowns. These things we will remember, but even more we will cherish the simple things—the ghinkos in the fall, the sunsets on the lake, the bridge games and 2 a.m. bull sessions, the familiar footsteps in the hall, and most of all the friendships we have formed.

But we cannot be sad as we stand at the crossroads for we are also looking eagerly to a future full of new and exciting opportunities—a future that will bear the mark of four years spent at Wesleyan, a blending of the old and the new.

ERMINE TUFTS ARCHER

Macon, Georgia

Elementary Education

"Mrs. Archer" is a woman of many talents. She excels in everything she undertakes to do, whether it be preparing a daily assignment or caring for her husband and four darling children. She is known by all as being a sincere, warm-hearted person and one who will always meet you with a smile.

We at Wesleyan love her for being so sweet and helpful by setting such good examples for us. We know she will make a wonderful teacher for she has such patience and understanding. "Mrs. Archer" is one whom the teachers enjoy, the students admire and will never forget.

FLORABELLE BLOODWORTH

Haddock, Georgia

Home Economics

A rare capacity for getting away with mischief, sparkling brown eyes, and a burst of laughter—these will be remembrances of Flo. Those who know Flo know that she is the height of efficiency.

With quick trips to Haddock, the whur-r-r of a sewing machine and "Hi y'all, I'm in a hurry, gotta go"—that's Flo.

To some of us she is the epitome of etiquette and we realize that this is a reflection of her belief in doing the right thing at the right time. She is always eager to help in solving the problem of the minute, and we have grown to depend on her for so many things. She has been our protector these four years and we know that the same characteristics will follow through in married life.

NANCY ELIZABETH BOWDEN Greenville, South Carolina

Elementary Education

Our Nancy—a warm, friendly personality, a smile for everyone as she greets us with her charming “hello.” We admire Nancy’s knack for getting everything done during the week, which enables her to spend those special weekends with Jim. Yet, Nancy always finds time to listen to anyone’s problems and lend a helping hand if she can.

Though we will miss her, Nancy will be a great success as she leaves us early in January to go out into the teaching profession. Her undying love for children and her devotion to her studies assures us that Nancy will succeed in her new task in life.

MARY JANICE BOLAND

Winter Haven, Florida

Physical Education

A little green Plymouth approaches, brakes squeak, horn sticks, doors slam, unmistakable footsteps sound in the hall and Jan ambles in. She immediately tackles the tasks that are nearest and with astounding efficiency gets everything done. Who else can cram 12 hours of work, 12 of play, 12 of eating and sleeping all into one day without hurrying?

From the date office to the pool, Jan is a popular figure on campus. But when that far-away look appears on her face, you may be sure that she’s somewhere between Maine and Florida. Deep thoughts, honest opinions frankly given, neatness and sincerity, are specialties of our unforgettable Jan.

JOYCE MATTHEWS BOWERS

Macon, Georgia

English

"This English is going to get me down," remarks Joyce, as she flies into class late, completely out of breath. How many times have we seen the tall, brunette figure with the natural smile as she dashed from one class to the next? And how many times have we heard her off-hand remarks concerning the house guests she manages to have during holidays? Not entirely unrealistic is her casual remark that she stayed up all night nursing a sick child and still prepared her lessons.

We must admire her for the initiative she has shown in combining house-keeping and studies. We wonder how she gets so much done with so little spare time. Yet, we realize that it takes an individual with deep convictions to strive for so much. Joyce will be remembered for these qualities.

BONNIE GENE BUTLER

Alma, Georgia

Sociology

Bonnie . . . Princess of the pony-tail, sparkling eyes and the glow that comes from a love of life.

Bonnie . . . the personification of nonchalance, the unhurried, unworried Bonnie—and yet, the rush of excitement at the first mention of Phi Delta, Atlanta, "Mr. Blue" or Frank. Unique in her ability to become the life of the party or to give aid in solving that "insolvable" problem.

Bonnie . . . alive to all the gaiety, complex situations and love in the world, in love with lemon pie from the Toga, honest and sincere in friendship.

Bonnie . . . Princess of the pony-tail.

LOTA JEAN CAIN

Atlanta, Georgia

Sociology

"Hurry Lota, it's already 8:35" . . . and Jean ambles out of the room, late to class again, clutching in her hand the term paper that was due last week. This is Jean, never in a hurry about anything but eventually getting there or getting it done.

Her enthusiasm for any activity whether it be soccer, a bridge game, an A.A. meeting, or a trip to Riverside . . . her bewildering cry, "Woe is me!" . . . the abundance of "cotton" in her weekly wash . . . her strumming accompaniment to a spur of the moment song fest . . . but most of all, her concern for others and their problems and her willingness to do favors . . . these things are "Lota Jean" . . . loveable, huggable, unforgettable.

GLORIA JOYCE BYRD

Atlanta, Georgia

Music Education

The merry atmosphere created by "Bird" is achieved not by jokes, but by voicing the uncomplicated truth about the idealistic illusions we live in. Here is a courageous person; remember the night she successfully stalked the mouse in Banks while onlookers clung to the safety of chairs and desk tops? We learned the night she repaired the squeaky "Bird-house" door with baby oil that she is "very mechanically-minded" also. Her acrobatics on the "big organ" amazingly result in a delicate Mendelssohn sonata. She always gives the impression of calmness; it results from using her fine mind and strong character to plan ahead.

Her deep understanding of the Christian way of life, along with her other qualities will make Joyce the perfect minister's wife.

Macon, Georgia

French

Those impish eyes rolling toward the ceiling, tongue in cheek, and hands clasped as if she can hardly contain herself are all very usual indications that "Jukie" is heading us all into mischief or into gales and gales of laughter. Jukie is the "fun" girl, the "girl in love with a wonderful guy," the "juicy bit of gossip" girl, and the "girl we take our troubles to."

Whether working on a committee for Y, studying her "lovely" Psychology and French books and helping others do so, or just playing a fast game of bridge, Juliana is our friend, a dedicated worker, and loads of humor wrapped in one package. We know her future will be bright and happy . . . just as she is to others.

JULIA LINDA CHAMBERS

Sylvester, Georgia

Music Education

Running in and out—orchestra, soccer, this meeting and that. This is Linda.

How did she ever manage to work on the Stunt Committee, go to Riverside, and still make it to bed at a decent hour, keeping up her average?

We respect her belief in others, and her willingness to volunteer for those less glorious tasks.

Her ambition and drive inspire us—graduate school she says!

Unusual evening clothes, black dresses to match her hair, tiny volumes of the One Hundred Series—these remind us of Linda and we choose never to forget a wonderful friend.

SANDRA COMBS

LaGrange, Georgia

Psychology

A burst of heaving laughter fills the room, and we know Sandra is enjoying the company of a friend. She utters a very faint "Oh Sigh" and we see her floating on a cloud to some faraway place, perhaps Atlanta. A distressing glance at her little green notebook . . . she wonders if everything will fit into her day's busy schedule. Sincere dedication . . . the time . . . the service, the concern she has given to "Y." Quiet repose . . . once again she is lost in silent gratitude.

These things are part of a personality that we have grown to love. Once a shy country girl, Sandra has developed the confidence and maturity of a young woman, topped off with an individuality only she could possess. She leaves in every footstep a hesitant smile that can never hide the real Sandra from those who know her well. But, better still, she has given us the greatest gift of all . . . herself.

Griffin, Georgia

Psychology

We hear "Oh really!" and we know who's around—Lynn—perhaps she's asking about your wonderful weekend or that new project you're working on. She's interested in others, deeply enough to come to their aid at the crucial moment, ready to share in their happiness. Who could forget the many times she helped underclassmen with themes, general psych, or whatever. She brought back tales of an exciting tour of Europe and made us feel as if we had been right there.

Working with children delights her—she seems so excited when the "light" finally reaches that twelve-year-old who's struggling with compound interest.

A "never-say-die" type, Lynn impresses us as having the task half done when she takes it on. The best is her goal—and there is no doubt she will attain the heights for which she aims.

ANNELLE CROTWELL

Leesburg, Georgia

Mathematics

Who is Annelle? Search in your treasured memories for the girl who would come into a room and soon have everyone laughing at her familiar stories from Leesville, the cabin; or crying over the mishaps of her beloved rubber tree plant, Vigero, or the mathematically impossible calculus problem. You will find Annelle wherever there are people, and you will find people wherever there is Annel, for she is gifted with a sense of deep insight into characters and situations.

Entertaining is as much a part of Annelle as her nocturnal nature and her ATO night sack, her usual outfit for serving percolated coffee and toasted pound cake. During a spurt of enthusiasm she will frantically clean and rearrange the whole room. Soon Annelle will have a home of her own which we're sure she'll decorate ingeniously.

Now do you know Annelle? She is a paradox—down to earth, yet reserved; many sided temperament, yet stable character. This is Annelle.

CAROL MILOR DAWSON

Macon, Georgia

Elementary Education

In Carol we see a girl of many varied talents—student, teacher, fisherman, wife, homemaker, and babysitter for a boxer pup named Poncho. She is full of pep and vitality, making lasting friendships and enjoying life to its fullest. Carol, with all of her activities always has time for a friendly "Hi" and a chat over a cup of coffee. She is indeed a versatile girl—and one to be admired.

DIANE DAVIS

Coral Gables, Florida

Psychology

Individuality—perhaps this is the best word to describe Diane. She is one who refuses to be stereotyped: no sooner do you describe her as the fun-loving party girl with the French roll, tennis shoes, coffee cup, and current novel in her hand, than she appears the sophisticate complete with sweeping page boy, Fifth Avenue style, and Emily Post manners. Those who know Diane find her a very challenging personality—a searching thinker with a keen mind, a quick wit, and a rare capacity for understanding others. Never satisfied with the status quo, Diane constantly strives to make us more aware of the ever changing times and the need for evaluation not only in thoughts but in actions. For Diane to desire is to obtain; to aspire is to achieve.

MINA DE LA VERGNE DE JARNETTE Tampa, Florida

Elementary Education

Sparkling eyes, a friendly smile, a hearty laugh—this is Mina as we all know her. Midnight gab sessions, fraternity parties, a helping hand—this is Mina as her classmates know her.

Mina has a unique ability to blend the most admirable qualities. Who else can enjoy a prank or a joke to the fullest and at the same time show outstanding maturity? Who else can be an excellent practice teacher while being a devoted wife? Who else could diligently work at the job of being a successful student while waiting for the rewards of being a mother?

No one but Mina, who has won a special place of admiration and respect in our hearts.

ANN SHELTON FROST Charlotte, North Carolina

Sociology

"A merry heart goes all the day," and this is Frostie as she scoots around campus employing her unique phrases, the ultimate in expression, to relate with great exuberance the happenings of the day. There is no such thing as monotony for Frostie, for her every motion hums of this never ending merry-making as she continually tries to think up new tricks and escapades for her friends whether they be instructions on "moon dancing" or trips to the Luau.

However there is another expression of this merriment, that which is typified in her complete unselfishness and thoughtfulness for others. This richness of character cannot be conveyed in words for only through contact with her can its great worth be comprehended. She lends happiness and completeness to those around her. And so this, our merry heart, has become our happiness all the day.

MARY LOUISA GARDNER

Madison, Georgia

Home Economics

A bouncing red pony tail, contagious laughter, a white foam rubber dog, air mail letters postmarked Italy, oatmeal cookies, a blank mind when it comes to spelling—all of these things add up to Mary Lou. A sophisticated French twist, a competent manager, a conscientious student, a cosmopolitan outlook, red roses and mink—these too are Mary Lou. Who else could study with her eyes closed and yet remain an honor student? Who else could make the world seem so bright and gay by being so funny and yet who else could be so comforting and understanding when a problem is brought to her? We admire Mary Lou—for her thoughtfulness, her consistency, her dependability and her high standards. We envy Mary Lou for her ability, her happy attitude toward life, her romantic trip to Europe, and her exciting plans for the future. We appreciate Mary Lou for the many times she has given of herself, her opinions, and her contributions to our class and Wesleyan. Our lives have been enriched by her presence.

SUZANNE JONES GALLOWAY

Pensacola, Florida

English

Suzanne is a rare blending of sparkling wit, unlimited talents, and a deep appreciation of life. Her abilities are unique: consuming five Coca-Cola's a day, shining eight pairs of shoes at one time, sleeping until ten minutes before class, procrastinating about bedtime, playing bridge anytime, and volunteering to play soccer goalie even though her position was fullback (because her husband wanted one in the family!) Who will ever forget September of her senior year when she appeared with a wedding album, tales of a Nassau honeymoon, and vivid reports on housekeeping?

We have seen another side of Suzanne . . . one perhaps, which will remain indefinitely. Her intense desire to give nothing less than the best of herself presents a challenge for us to follow. Unselfishly giving of herself to others, Suzanne can solve any problem in five minutes and her solution is always a sensible one . . . a positive reflection of her character. Gratefully we acknowledge her presence among us for we cannot help but admire one who commands so much respect.

MARY ELIZABETH GRIFFIN

Winter Haven, Florida

Elementary Education

"Oh, that coke was just what I needed!" Who else could say this three times a day but Betty, and who else could find something yellow to wear for good luck everyday during exam week? A real Floridian, she has never quite gotten used to this cold Georgia climate and wears a sweater even in a heat wave. When we think of Betty, we think of a lady of perfection. In her own quiet way she is constantly giving of herself—sincerely devoting herself to any undertaking; always getting everything done promptly. We admire her determination to present nothing less than her best. People seem to be attracted to Betty because of her kindness and thoughtfulness. Even her fourth graders will remember Miss Griffin as someone who is ready to listen to their problems. It is this unselfish love of people that we will remember when we think of Betty.

SARAH LEE HARMON

Sally Harmon . . . Remember her?

In the classroom, she's that determined English major who's so empathetic with all the romantic characters.

In the AA room, she's that campus leader who gets excitedly talkative about new ideas to better the sports activities at Wesleyan.

On campus, she's that senior who always throws her hand up to greet you.

In the dorm, she's that unexpected deliverer of enthusiasm about the latest pranks of herself and her associates of the day.

In the room, she's that person with whom you realize the meaning of the word friend.

And of course, all the time she's that maturing young woman whom Weldon has chosen for his own.

That's Sally Harmon. Remember. . . ?

A pink head, studying the complex mechanisms of "That Machine"—a motherly voice reminding the forgetful—a willing spirit lending its support, compose the qualities which have made Liz so indispensable to the Alumnae Office, the Freshman Class, and her friends. Liz with her hot rod, her broom, her pair of scales, and her growing supply of Green Stamps.

"Oh Spencer" could you ask for more? Who can tell you that "you're ugly and your mother dresses you funny" or relate a simple story about Ann or "the store" and create so much laughter? A quiet nature, a sincere concern for others, dependability, mature understanding, determination and perception—a picture of the Liz we shall always remember.

MARY ANN HAWKINS

Macon, Georgia

Elementary Education

Mary Ann—eating chili in the kitchen, shyly introducing her fiancé, giggling in rollers at midnight, dashing off to Glee Club, sorting out dating problems—a real friend to all who know her, with a bright smile, and an everlasting coffee pot.

A transfer student, she has spent only the last two years at Wesleyan, and concentrates mostly on the glories of practice teaching and the worries of other people. Thoughtful, sincere, conscientious and full of fun, she is good to meet and better to know; in fact, one of the highlights of the Senior Dorm.

Nancy . . . golden hair and bouncing curls—a confirmed pessimist with constant and irrepressible optimism. To know Nancy is to know her change of mood: sometimes the gay, carefree child, others the mature woman—a well-rounded person whose creativity touches art, literature, and everything living. Count on her for her frankness and intellectual revelations—one can never forget Nancy for all that she is: sincerity, frankness, the individualist, and the intellectual.

LYNDA ANN HUDSON

Montgomery, Alabama

Elementary Education

Strains of laughter heard over everything else . . . we know that we can find Lynda there, for wherever she is there is gaiety and fun.

"I'll do that tomorrow," is a statement frequently muttered by Lynda. How often has she been awakened from the study parlor couch at 3:00 a.m. by another sleepy classmate? Who knows how many all night study sessions were brought on by seemingly endless days of procrastination? No one . . . but we all look on with amazement as she finishes not more than a day late and comes through with flying colors.

Always on a diet, but also always eating . . . this too is Lynda. She will long be remembered as the characters of Little Lulu and Jump whenever the Tri K's look back on stunt of '58 and '60.

Conscientious as a teacher; capable as a leader; standing strongly for what she believes . . . Lynda has given us much, because she has given of herself.

A tall, blond-headed figure ambling around the dormitory in search of food, a magazine, or to tell someone her latest 'beatnik' joke. A smile that broadens until you hear a giggle that 'bubbles' as it erupts from the depths of her toes. She has an always present, wonderfully contagious mood that transfers itself to all that are around her. To live with her is chaotic. You are always in constant wonder as to what she may come in with next . . . a dissected pig, a grasshopper, or maybe a stray puppy that "was shivering to death in that 20° degree below zero weather outside." Again we catch something that characterizes this delightful person—the exaggeration that makes us wonder if maybe there really were 10 million letters for her box mate and not one for her. But, there is more to Sally's personality than laughter. There is a seriousness that makes her seem sometimes a little shy and reserved. It is this quality that we most admire in her . . . an ability to say "no" when she has to study . . . a manner that makes Sally a true and lasting friend.

NANCY ANN HUFF

Decatur, Georgia

Sociology

Down the hall one hears the sound of laughter mingled with music from the stereo. Whose room could it be coming from but Huffie's? Never lacking an audience she entertains with dramatic and exaggerated tales of the latest "true adventure."

No doubt the adventure occurred when she offered her taxi service to town or had "rooted" up a group to enjoy a filet at Len Berg's. Or she could have just caught another culprit raiding her fashionable wardrobe.

The One Act Circus comes to an abrupt halt when Nancy remembers the project due yesterday. In spite of her procrastination she produces another good grade with seemingly little effort.

Regardless of whether Nancy is in the midst of entertaining, another adventure, or just procrastinating, she is always ready to give her friends a minute of her time. And with her interest in others and her inexhaustible supply of energy, this minute often becomes hours. For above all we value Nancy as a friend.

LEONIE INGRAM

Belfast, Ireland

Although Wesleyan has known Leonie for only a year, she has left an indelible imprint on all with whom she has come in contact. Her quaint Irish accent has endeared her to all of us. Bounding with enthusiasm, Leonie has always entered into the full swing of campus activities. She always comes dashing into the room at 5:55, covered with ceramics clay or stagecraft paint with only a few seconds to run to the dining hall. Her favorite expression is, "I'm starved!" She claims to be in a state of potential organization and her fellow students see her only for a brief interval between classes and speaking engagements.

Leonie has brought that endearing quality of the Emerald Isle into the lives of all of us, and for this, we shall be eternally grateful.

JOANNE BENTON JORDAN

Monticello, Georgia

Physical Education

We see her streaking down the soccer field and look enviously at her outstanding athletic ability. We see her sitting on the floor in her cluttered room, earnestly expending her creative abilities—then wonder in awe at the bulletin boards, posters, and little figures that emerge from the hundreds of papers, pens, and paints that are scattered about. Curious, we look further to find just what makes up this "athletic artist" and in doing so, we find the slow-moving, quiet (sometimes), sensitive individual that is Joanne. Southern hospitality, a la peach ice cream; hilarious laughter at jokes she'll never understand; phenomenal luck at bridge; and quiet walks through the woods for some time of her own just to think: this is our unforgettable Joanne.

HELEN LOUISE KERLEY

Fort Lauderdale, Florida

Religion

She's more than a college girl with a favorite stuffed dog, an indispensable food tin, a writing board for that work for Dr. Brown, and an adored "Moon-Goon" in her room. She's more than a petite figure called "Pee Wee," with brown eyes and enviable red hair, with a walk which "floats." Her cheery little giggle and silly moods blended with her calmness and poise add to our appreciation of her, but still, there is more. There is the bright outlook rooted in consecration, the genuineness, the sensitivity to beauty whether it be in nature or in people. And there is the loving acceptance of others which draws us to learn still more of Louise.

It's hard to believe that a minister with seven churches and a family can commute over sixty miles to attend classes. In fact, it seems impossible until you talk to "Reverend" Kirby . . . then you understand how he accomplishes these tasks.

Biology

A floor covered with biology books, leaves, and bugs tells us that Jane is near. A white bride's book filled with pictures reminds us that a summer wedding has taken place and that Jane is now a wife. The absence of a white car tells us that Jane has gone for another weekend to portray the role of housewife. Her special rendition of "Ain't no chains strong enough to hold me" reflects one side of Jane's personality—laughter, fun, and enjoyment of life. A tall figure always ready to offer assistance reflects her serious side of thoughtfulness and concern for others. We will remember Jane for who else could sleep through a fire alarm—procrastinate from studies—represent a picture of neatness and dignity in a crew-neck sweater, loafers, and socks? We will long remember our Jane.

"This is Katie Lee from Tennessee." "Katie Lee what?" . . . This was the beginning of four "hectic" years which all started with her first rendition of Heathcliff and Gertrude. Since then she has been the life-saver of every entertainment committee, the prima-donna of every stunt, and "public enemy number one" in her white scarf.

During these four years, we have learned to admire and envy Katie for her calmness in all circumstances. Who else could have three unwritten term papers due tomorrow and still be calm at 12:00 p.m. or leisurely compose her student teaching lesson plans on the way to school?

Whether in the role of roommate, classmate, or teacher, Katie is an asset to any situation because of her unique ability to get along with others and at the same time offer sound judgment and constructive criticism.

"Anybody going to the coke machines?"—who else but Jane has worked so diligently to keep this bottling company in business? If you can't find her in the Pharm during the week, she's probably in the dorm having a meeting, listening to a "soap opera," reading the latest magazine, or watching Perry Mason. On Fridays we find her on her way to Woodbury to see Tommy and to check on the pimento plant. This is Jane who lives by her own philosophy of "eat, drink, and be merry for tomorrow we may diet!" She's our authority on how to avoid learning to play bridge, our math major staying up late to cram for the big test tomorrow, our capable leader and willing follower. Combine these things and we have a responsible, understanding, fun-loving, and easy-going personality—these will remind us of Jane.

"Caught half-way between an ice-cream cone and a martini" is an apt description of Betsy as we all know. We are amused at her "skip to dinner" and her little girl voice. We are impressed by her strong political and religious convictions. We are awed at the cosmopolitan world traveler. Yet all of these are Betsy.

We first knew her as a "Darling little thing" with her dramatization of the peach. We watched her as she went from a Christmas in Cuba, to West Point, to a K. A. obsession. We enjoyed her accounts of dates, parties, and Old South. And now we see Betsy, the history teacher, looking toward graduation. We shall never forget Betsy—the little girl—the world traveler—the mature woman.

We see that familiar Chevrolet, and we know that Jane is on campus for another day. Jane is one of our faithful day students, who never fails to show her interest in some school or class project. We often find her in the dormitory studying with classmates for a "Dr. Gin." She is never too involved to take a "break."

Each day for Jane is a new and wonderful experience, brightened by one of her curious smiles. We have seen her unique personality expressed in her calm manner and her sincere approach to life exemplified in her desire to give to others.

Jane is devoted to "getting the most out of life," and has proved this with loyalty to Wesleyan. We know that these ideals will carry over into her new role as Mrs. Lynch.

How do you describe a friend? What words can you use to express the sympathetic shoulder and the understanding ear of a girl who listens to everyone's problems? The English language is limited in such matters, but those who know Jeanette can understand. Jeanette is really two personalities in one. The sly smile that steals over her face as she teases a classmate, and the serious, dedicated and talented musician. Wavy black hair that is the envy of everyone, boundless energy, outstanding ability, numerous trips to Riverside in her new car, a diamond ring, Alex, Alex, Alex—these are Jeanette as we know her.

A few are privileged to know another Jeanette and to share her dreams, wishes, joys and sorrows. We are all the richer for it and we realize that this is the Jeanette that we will remember.

The side of Beth that we remember best, though, is her creative one; we recall the midnight hours on Stunt, the stories and poems of writing lab, and the soccer entrance of "Beowulf and His Tri-K Thanes." Beth, the girl of the venetian blind hair (rolled up and down at least twenty-five times a day), of the 5:00 a.m. phone calls from Saipan, is now one of our "Wesleyan Wives Junior League" members, and we know that her ability to succeed—to excel—will shape her life with Giles as it has her life with us.

"Queen Ann," our most sophisticated soccer team captain, is indeed an organization girl . . . a meeting a minute is her motto! Who else has fifty-seven varieties of cosmetics, twenty-nine pairs of shoes, a two years' supply of coffee, a love for the Navy, and a pill for every occasion . . . all of which she considers indispensable?

Everyone should learn to appreciate the sensational effect produced by the "hot rod," TV, hi-fi, washboard and thimbles, accompanied by the snip-snip of scissors as she clips the latest recipe from Good Housekeeping.

"The Look" has been known to intimidate people completely before they discover that Frances is not aloof, just near-sighted! The raised eyebrow technique is effective, but only for the 10 seconds that it lasts until she breaks up.

We enjoy teasing Ann about these things, yet we cling to them, because they constitute one of the few constant factors we have known in our four years together. They are reminders that underneath the "busy" veneer is the friend with whom we have shared so many things; the one who is honestly concerned for us.

A versatile girl with a delightful, carefree attitude about life, yet a sincere person who is always ready to lend a helping hand.

Judy—the one Yankee we know who is really a Southerner at heart. And furthermore she can beat us all with the imitation of a "Southern" Southern drawl.

If ever there was a Wesleyanne who loved and admired all the tradition that her school holds, it was Judy. Yes, it took Judy to shout, "Why don't we ever sing 'Dixie'?" to make us Southern girls realize our heritage.

JUDITH KAREN SCHOLZ

Smyrna, Georgia

Church Music

Judy with her Miami accent still coming out is nevertheless a true Southerner at heart. Many long hours spent in the practice rooms, post office, church, choir, and study parlor keep her busy but she is always ready to give a listening ear and advice to a friend's problem. She will always be loved, admired, and remembered for her high ideals, faith and trust in people, sempre fidelis to the organ, undying love for coffee, and contagious laughter. This is Judy . . . an individualist, but always just Judy.

Mathematics

$x \sin yy' = 1 - x^2 e^{-\cos y}$. . . all those differential equations no matter how hard, she still manages to solve them. Jackie, the girl with the dark brown eyes, the here-one-year-gone-the-next; "I'm back again." She is easy to know; wonderful to work with, especially on Stunt when we needed those last minute touches. She has many talents; sewing a dress in one afternoon, wearing it that night . . . musically inclined, yet is completely nil on tennis and checkers. She is a girl who can complete 4 semesters of phys. ed. but manages to have to take folk dancing first semester her senior year. Jackie is a person with high ideals, and positive convictions, and we admire her for these character traits.

MARY TSONG

Chemistry

A perfect blend of the gay and the serious is Mary "T" Song, as she is lovingly called. She is just as likely to play a trick as she is to engage in a serious discussion on her homeland, China. Serious about her major, she looks ahead to graduate school. Mary is also very musical, as shown through her talent and intelligent appreciation.

Although she has been with us a relatively short time, her quick perceptive mind early made her an American at heart. We will always remember Mary with her Chinese delicacies, sharp bridge playing, diets, summers in New York, struggles with speeches, and steadfast loyalty to the P.K. class.

PATRICIA KAY SUMMEY

Fort Myers, Florida

Music Education

There are two kinds of simplicity: simplicity this side of complexity and simplicity on the other side. Pat presents herself to us at one moment with the freshness of unencumbered reality in a puzzled look that seeks explanation, and in the next moment, the embarrassed smile of realizing that in one short profound statement she has summarized and solved the problem.

This simplicity that highlights her philosophy and way of life is adorned only with reality—and is evident in her sincerity of dealing with and interpreting others, while complexity manifests itself in the quiet moments spent in concerned contemplation of thoughts, values and actions in the past and plans and ideals for the future. A way of living called complex simplicity, Pat is a gentle blending of lightness and darkness.

These thoughts flash before us when we think of Joyce, for she is a constant factor in the lives of those close to her.

LINDA LOU VOGEL

Miami, Florida

Fine and Applied Art

A tousled head suddenly appears behind a mound of books, paint boxes, sketch pads, and brushes which are dumped on the nearest bed, to reveal another paint-smeared dress.

"Guess what happened!!!" . . . And Linda begins her latest tale of the most wonderful (or horrible) thing that happened during her day. Usually, she doesn't finish, for she is certain to be interrupted by a phone call which is followed by another, and another.

Will anyone be able to forget Linda? Surely we will always remember how gullible she can be. We shall also remember Linda's readiness to give help, whether it be listening to a problem, making a poster for an upcoming event, or lending you her favorite earrings for the evening. Nor will we be able to forget her deep faith in mankind, her love of the outdoors, of her ability to try and then to try again.

No, I doubt that any of us will ever forget this petite bundle of talent . . . Forget Linda? How could we!

JUDITH WARNOCK

Savannah, Georgia

Piano

An energetic auburn-haired girl who is alternately serious and gay—that's Judy. We see her serious side as she plays the role of a talented pianist on the stage, or as she pours over an assignment, always striving to reach her goals, and never procrastinating. However, when her week's work is completed, Judy is on the go, and often she assumes an elated air as she plans her wardrobe for a big weekend in "Hot-lanta."

We admire Judy's ability to sew, and will always remember her forever-changing hair styles—a little girl with a long page boy, or a mature sophisticate with a French twist.

Yes, she has countless virtues, but most of all we will remember her for her sincerity, generosity, and thoughtfulness in all she does.

CORA ANN WARE

West Palm Beach, Florida

Elementary Education

A tall graceful figure walks across campus looking as if she just stepped out of Mademoiselle—Cora Ann enters our lives. At first she presents a picture of aloofness, sophistication and poise. Perhaps one is filled with awe and a little envious of the ever perfect picture of neatness and dignity. However, upon acquiescence, one realized that she is a warm and understanding person. One learns to appreciate her true friendship and value it highly. We admire her for her ability to organize, her firm ideals, and definite opinions and her sincerity. We have laughed with her as she found herself upside down with her feet on the dining room table. We have worked with her as she conscientiously prepares to make another high grade. We have shared carefree, gay moments with her but yet there remains an ever present air of mystery and of charm.

ANNE SIMPSON WILSON

Macon, Georgia

History

We began to notice a new face on campus second semester of our Junior year, and we were curious to penetrate beneath the surface. Our curiosity was returned by Anne as she quickly learned names and began inquiring into our lives. She has never ceased to know the latest "scow" on any Wesleyanne—a feat almost unbelievable on the part of a day student.

She could always be seen in a hurry, whether it meant going to the library to do research for a paper, or talking and gestulating with her hands in the Pharm. Anne could make you laugh readily with her stories of Mary Baldwin.

But beneath the gay smiles and cheerful hellos, we glimpse the serious Anne. Her interest in education has become evident in her scholastic achievements and justly so—for Anne is a dedicated person. To have her among us for so short a time has been a privilege and a pleasure.

PEGGY McKINNEY YOUNGBLOOD Decatur, Georgia

Sociology

A cheery "hello," a friendly smile, a genuine interest in those around her—these are the qualities personified in "the littlest Tri-K." Peggy contrasts the smallness of her size with the magnitude of her outstanding qualities as a remarkable member of her class. With her boundless energy, her enduring patience, and her deep insights, she has been chosen a class and a campus leader. Within this small figure hides a bombshell of humor. For Peggy, full of pranks, is always ready to put cracker crumbs in someone's bed, sneak clothes from one room to another, or grease the door knobs up and down the hall. But a muffled giggle or a sudden burst of laughter is always a give-away. Peggy joins the ranks of the "married group" in a successful combination of student and housewife. Always willing to do more than enough, whether it be in her studies or for others, Peggy is admired by all and treasured by her friends.

By succeeding in defeating the trial of our freshman and sophomore years we have constructed an inexpugnable base for two flagpoles. On the first pole shall fly our banner of "Wesleyanne-ism;" the second, our banner of individualism.

As firm believers in "Wesleyanne-ism," we have joyfully played the role of "Big Sister," enthusiastically battled in soccer, and creatively "Reconstructed" for Homecoming. We have welcomed two wonderful housemothers to our dorm, responded to all fire alarms, and learned to live with the venetian blinds closed. Giving Christmas presents to a financially disabled family, supporting the activities of the "Big Four" organizations, especially through our participation en masse in Stunt, and keeping Wortham as unmarred as it was the day we returned to Wesleyan for our Junior year, have shown the purposefulness of our spirit. As Juniors, we have received the duty of responsibility; as Purple Knights, we have risen majestically to the challenge.

Individually, each of us has begun to inquire deeper into our major subjects, to consider more seriously our future, and to realize how little possible knowledge we have acquired. Every one of us has inaugurated a preparation for our last year in college and our lives away from Wesleyan.

Looking back over the year, we can realize that our banners are being flown wide and high, and with redeemable pride.

MISS SOPHOMORE CLASS

Lena Lane

"Glorious Golden Heart Sophomore!" As that cry rang through hall after hall of "Lowly Green Knight Rats," we realized perhaps for the first time that we were sophomores. Our dreams of the freshman year had come true, and here we were with decisions to make. To stay or not to stay—as transfer forms filled our mail boxes. To be or not to be—as conference after conference with advisors only muddled our already confused plans for majors. We awoke at last to the knowledge that there's a big wide world outside those brightly lit gates, and we began to prepare ourselves for it.

Our preparation started with "Rat Week" when we found that by working together we could accomplish the seemingly impossible. And which one of us will ever forget the night of our "hymn sing" in second floor study parlor?

Then came soccer and as our team raced up and down the field we cheered them on with the same united spirit we found during "Rat Week." For Homecoming there was the Chaucerian dining hall stunt, the BLAP flyswatter, and the turkey drawing. (No, it wasn't fixed!) And that same day we rose at our second banquet with lumps in our throats to pay tribute to our class and our school.

The cries of "Stunt night is a'comin', the cup is in sight," coupled with six red-eyed committee gals assured us that it was that time once more. Yep! We did it last year and here we go again. What was that rumor about telephone poles?

Along with these major events there were things like engagements (should we call this minor?) weddings, debuts, new signs on campus, new lights in study parlors, and finally the long hoped for new furniture—and we got it, too.

We look back and see all of these things—each for themselves and their own personal meanings. But as we look forward, we see them as a greater part of a whole. Yes, Golden Hearts, we see them and this wonderful sophomore year as a preparation—not just for tomorrow or next year, but for always.

MISS FRESHMAN CLASS

When the Class of '64 arrived at Wesleyan last fall, most of the Knights were equal shades of blue and green. We were blue at the thought of leaving our parents, brothers, sisters, friends; and that special boy—even blue because we could see them only on weekends or semester break or holidays depending on how far from home we had gone. We were green as could be when it came to college life. (And the mighty Golden Heart Sophomores never let us forget it for a moment during Rat Week). We can still hear the echo of: "You are truly green, Rats!" Soon the novelty of buying books, having a roommate, living in a dormitory, going to floor meetings at ten at night (for some reason they're never held at any other time), and suffering through evenings as telephone monitor began to fade.

Looming in front of us were mid-semester exams, Homecoming, and the Soccer Cup, Christmas holidays, final exams, Stunt Night, and all the excitement of spring at Wesleyan. We were getting to know the girls in our class and in our Big Sister class. We met Golden Hearts and Tri K's, too. We chose our leaders, elected class officers, house council members, representatives for Homecoming Court and May Court. We worked for the Vetteropt, the Town and Country, and the Wesleyan. We studied, wrote term papers, ate apple turnovers and chocolate nut sundaes in the Pharm, gained weight, and wrote more term papers. College was beginning to mean more than just a degree, and Wesleyan was becoming more than just a college. We began to call Wesleyan our home. We belonged. We were still green, but with a capital "G." Suddenly we really were Green Knights; we were Wesleyannes, and we were proud to be both.

Phi Delta Phi

Phi Delta Phi is a scholastic honor society established by the Board of Trustees of Wesleyan College in 1924. The purpose of the society is to promote scholarship on the campus and to honor those students in the Liberal Arts College who have been outstanding for scholarship, character and loyalty to the institution.

Election of members is held twice a year, in the fall at the beginning of the senior year, and again at the close of the year. Members are elected by the Society from a list of students recommended by the faculty. The seniors included in this annual were elected in the fall of 1960.

Majors

Annelle Crotwell, Jackie Smith, Jane Lewis.

The professional opportunities for which MATHEMATICS majors are prepared include secondary school and college teaching, civil service, statistical, industrial and business employment. A mathematics major acquires a critical, logical attitude for correct reasoning, a clear understanding of the method of drawing conclusions based on incomplete information as well as the deductive method. Mathematics as a creative endeavor has aesthetic values in addition to its usefulness as a tool in science and industry.

Mary Lou Gardner, Sandra Locke, Flo Bloodworth.

CREATIVE HOMEMAKING AND FAMILY LIVING is designed for the primary purpose of preparing students for the role of wife, mother, homemaker, and woman-in-the-community. Considerable attention is also given to providing the student with a well-rounded general and cultural education and to providing her with the aptitudes and values of Christian family living in a democratic society.

Sandra Combs, Diane Davis, Lynn Cochran.

The objective of a study of PSYCHOLOGY is to understand the abilities, motives, thoughts and actions of people. Understanding of self and of others is a primary goal. The study is designed to help a person in all areas of life, especially as a Christian, as a homemaker, and as a member of a civic and social group.

Jean Richardson, Nancy Hill, Linda Vogel.

ART courses are designed with a two-fold objective; to give the general student an insight into the values of historic and contemporary art and opportunities for exploration in studio art; and to provide fundamental technical training in her chosen field with further study in the history, philosophy and theory of art, thereby developing the student's understanding and capacity for creative sensitivity.

Jane Stallings Knight

The courses in BIOLOGY are designed to give a student an understanding of man's place in the living world and his dependence upon living organisms, and to provide the background for those who wish to acquire a degree of competence in the field of Biology.

Mary Tsong

The study of the courses in CHEMISTRY as arranged in this program will afford an orderly advancement in the knowledge of the nature of matter. Emphasis is placed upon accuracy of observation, of measurements, and of statement which together with the knowledge of scientific facts makes the study of chemistry a valuable part of a liberal education.

The Wesleyan student who has chosen MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY as her major must register as a senior in absentia and as a student in a School of Medical Technology. She will receive her B.S. degree.

The NURSING program includes both general and specialized education with supervised nursing experience in local hospitals and health centers. The graduate nurse, with a B.S. degree will be qualified for the practice of clinical nursing, able to assume responsibilities as a hospital head nurse, as assistant clinical instructor in schools of nursing, as field teachers in public health nursing in addition to many others.

The PREMEDICAL SCIENCE program prepares students in the science established by the professional schools of medicine dentistry and allied fields.

JoAnne Jordan, Mary Jo Porch, Janice Boland.

The DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION aims to help each student to build up sufficient strength and vitality to meet the demands of a normally active life; to appreciate and practice fundamental health habits; to develop a normal sense of carriage, a sense of rhythm, coordination and motor judgment; to be a cooperative and contributing participant in group activity; and to acquire skill and a lasting interest in wholesome forms of recreation.

Martha Kinsey, Pat Summey, Jeanette Loflin, Joyce Veal, Linda Chambers, Judy Scholtz, Joyce Byrd, Betty Claire Manning, Judy Warnock, Elizabeth Matthews, Mary Grace Kay.

The DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC provides training in music education, applied music, church music, and composition. It also serves the college as a whole by offering courses open to Liberal Arts students, by faculty members and by preparing programs which represent the college in various communities throughout the state.

Ann Ryals

A major in SPEECH affords a student training in diction, production, acting, and speech as well as exposure to the literature of yesterday, today. This training, aside from providing the fun of campus dramatics, prepares a person for a career in speech education, radio, television or the legitimate theatre.

Ann Robinson, Betsy Lester, Ann Wilson, Ermine Owenby.

The purpose of the HISTORY DEPARTMENT is to introduce the student to the experiences and cultures of mankind from primitive life to present time. These courses form a background for and understanding of the History of Art, the History of Literature and Drama, Philosophy, Religion, Education, and the Social Sciences. Courses in government acquaint the student with the civic responsibility.

Judy Roe, Ann Frost, Jo Anne Miller, Janet Mixon, Nancy Huff, Gayle Ricklufs, Jean Cain, Bonnie Butler, Peggy Youngblood.

SOCIOLOGY is concerned with the study of familial, political and economic institutions and the relationship of these institutions to the never-ending search for solutions to human problems.

The courses of this department are designed to acquaint the student with the development of cultural and economic structures so that she may more effectively participate in democratic living in a family group as a citizen and community leader.

Jukie Caldwell

A major in LANGUAGE prepares the student for the teaching of her particular field of study. Further use of the skill of mastering another language acquaints the student with all customs, traditions, and values of the particular language and the people of the country. This major affords many cultural advantages in the appreciation gained from such a study.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION at Wesleyan is a vital part of the Education Department curriculum. Depending upon whether their interests are in elementary, secondary education, students will combine work in other departments in varying proportions.

Joyce Bowers, Sally Harmon, Jane Lynch, Suzanne Galloway.

A major in ENGLISH equips the graduate to enter a variety of fields: education, journalism, business, religion, speech and philosophy. English gives the student an awareness of social, political, religious, and philosophical forces which have shaped the world in which we live.

A major in UNITED STATES LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE equips the student for work in the fields of journalism, teaching, and creative writing, as well as in other fields which require a comprehensive knowledge of trends in American literary thought and in the artistic and intellectual development of the United States.

The program in AMERICAN STUDIES is based on the proposition that a sound knowledge of our civilization, in its relations both to its own regions and to its neighbors throughout the world, contributes to human understanding and to the eventual achievement of world peace.

Louise Kerley, Liz Heim, Joyce Lee, Jan Oates.

The courses in RELIGION have as their objectives exploration, understanding and enrichment on the part of students regarding mankind's moral and religious heritage.

Organizations

Betty Claire Manning
PRESIDENT

Student Government Association

The Student Government Association of Wesleyan is based on the Honor System. This system places upon each Wesleyan a dual responsibility. First, she is responsible for seeing that she conducts herself in accordance with the principles set forth in the Honor System; second, she is responsible for seeing that her fellow students do likewise. The college believes that the students are capable of handling the serious responsibility of self-government; therefore the students are the governing system and are ultimately responsible for its success.

The student body elects twelve students to the executive board of the Student Government Association. This board strives to create a close relationship between the ideals of the Honor System and every phase of campus life. The ideals of the system become a reality as a result of working together to achieve the common goal of helping each Wesleyanne develop into a responsible young woman with mature judgment.

Y.W.C.A.

The Wesleyan Y.W.C.A. attempts to determine the needs of the students as individuals and as part of the college community so that it may evaluate her religious outlook and reorient it for her life. Included within this framework is a variety of activities ranging from corporate worship services to small group discussions. Throughout the year "Y" sponsors such activities as Stunt, Christian Emphasis Week, and Scholarship funds but these activities are only means to the end, as stated in our purpose:

We unite in the desire to realize full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God.

We determine to have a part in making this life possible for all people.

In this task we seek to understand Jesus and to follow Him.

Naiads

The Naiads are a group of girls interested in water ballet and precision swimming. Try-outs are held each fall and the entrants are judged by the old members.

The talents of the Naiads are well displayed in the annual December aquacade. Other functions of the club are the Easter Vespers Show and the swimming meet.

The club is based on the interest, participation, and teamwork—with the reward of a successful performance and a satisfied audience—from the television program to the show for the children's home. The hard work that a show requires and the fun the party afterwards fires the Naiads spirit of togetherness . . . as the darkness of the pool was lit by a lighted performance during the Christmas show.

Editors Page

To adequately thank all those who have made this Veterropt a reality would be an impossible task. However, credit should be given to the individuals whose efforts are evident in these pages.

Flo Bloodworth, Janice Boland, Katie Lee Tankersley, and Ann Frost untangled the senior write-ups and reworded them so that we all wouldn't be pixies and sophisticated souls!

Jane Flemister and Carol Ann Rollins, the junior editors, gave their class the distinction accorded rising seniors.

Virginia Barber managed the sophomore section by herself and it's easy to see that this was no small task for one person.

And, of course, the largest class section was the responsibility of Carolyn McKinney and Lou Beller.

Sally Ann Wickersham and Nancy Huff did a fine job on the clubs and majors section—both of which are usually big headaches.

Bonnie Butler and her advertising staff, Judy Roe, Carolyn McKinney, and Gail Thompson did an unusually fine job as we have more ads this year than the Veterropt has had in several years.

No art editor could have used the talent and imagination so well as did Cindy Miller. Her work speaks for itself.

Betty Griffin had the tremendous task of keeping our money straight . . . a nine months job.

Our associate editor, Virginia Poole, with her quiet unassuming manner has been a steadying influence and Virginia has been willing to help complete some copy long before the deadline.

The entire staff has greatly appreciated the help of our sponsor, Miss Shiver. Her interest and extreme loyalty have increased her eagerness to learn all phases of annual make-up.

To all these people, my sincere gratitude for your support, your suggestions, and most of all—your work.

We hope you like the 1961 Veterropt and our attempt to give it the formality a Wesleyan annual should attempt to achieve.

Ann Robinson
Veterropt, 1961
